

Medical Practice Exit Planning

You only get to leave once, get it right

Improve your practice efficiency

Practice exit planning is about maintaining control over how and when you leave and on what terms. It can make the difference between you retiring happily ever after or a financial mess.

Many practices sell fast and for a good price, however not every practice sells. The sale of a medical practice largely depends on its current profitability, future potential and whether it's in a condition to sell.

Since you only get to leave your business once, it pays to get it right.

Alecto can help you prepare for a successful exit. We assist you every step of the way, from planning and all the way through to selling your practice for a profit.

How you will benefit

Optimise performance before leaving

Smooth transition for team

Maximise your profit

When your practice is ready to sell profitably, we will tap into our network of motivated buyers of medical practices who are looking for exponential expansion of their practice portfolio and facilitate an introduction.

Costs

There is no fix price for our practice exit planning service. Each situation is unique and requires a custom solution. Please get in touch to discuss your requirements.
